NORTH 4TH STREET OWNERS SICK OF DEEP DUST

Movement for Paving Busy Street Gets New Impetus From Condition Which Makes Life a Burden.

The movement for the paving of North Fourth street, which made considerable headway several weeks ago and which is believed to have the support of a considerable majority of property owners on the busy residence street, has received new impetus from the present condition of the street which dust is often so deep as to make travel over it difficult, and causing the greatest inconvenience and distress to residents. Property owners on the street declared this morning that a constant dust haze hung over it and surrounding territory; that housekeepers were driven to desperation and that if ever there was a shining example of a street needing pavement it is North Fourth street today.

"Go out and take a look at it," declared one property owner this morning to the Herald. "Just go out there and see the conditions and then de-side if this street doesn't need paving. Also as you come back compare it with Copper avenue and compare the conditions on the two streets."

"I am informed by those in charge of the properties that several vacant houses on North Fourth street otherwise desirable places of residence, cannot be rented because of the dust. Housekeepers who do not have to, will not live in them, I am told, because the dust makes a clean house impossible. This street is the busiest in Albuquerque and it needs paving right now. There are no vacant houses on Copper avenue. Before it was paved vacant houses on the street were frequent and difficult to rent. I believe that property owners on North Fourth street will be forced to pave in self protection before very long."

It is a fact, as inspection shows, that the dust on North Fourth street is frightful. The street has not been sprinkled for some time, and it is doubtful if any system of sprinkling could keep down the dust on a street so heavily traveled by traffic of all kinds. Hundreds of teams and wagons pass over the street daily, it being the principal highway in and out of Albuquerque from the north. Several owners of North Fourth street property today said that the proposal to pave the street would be pushed.

CROWN PRINCE OF GERMANY REPORTED DEFINITELY DEAD

Berlin, Nov. 2.—Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany is dead, according to a Rome dispatch to the Gazzetta del Popolo, whose correspondent asserts he was informed by a diplomat accredited to the Vatican that the news had been received by the secretary of state in a cipher by the papal nuncio at Vienna, Monsignor Scappellato. The diplomat is said to have refused other details, but has assured the correspondent that the news was authentic.

The last previous report of the death of the crown prince was in March, though prior to that time he had frequently been reported killed. It was stated in September that he had broken down as a result of the strain of the offensive undertaken in the Argonne by the troops under his command.

SOME GOLD FACTS ABOUT CHARITY ALBUQUERQUE MUST MEET

Secretary Reed of Civic Betterment League Discusses Cases During the Past Month as Typical.

EIGHT YOUNG MEN WHO HAD A RIGHT TO AID

The Practical Side of Organized Charity Effort and the Need for Albuquerque Charities Day.

"If you were sick and were told that you would die unless you could get to the southwest, what would you do? Even if you had only a small sum of ready cash, what would you do?" Secretary Reed of the Civic Betterment league asked these questions and answered them this morning. "You would hike for the southwest as soon as you could and take the chance," he said.

"This is just what scores of young men in the east do. Some win out but a lot of them are up against too hard a fight, and they lose. When they get to the southwest and find that they have to appeal to someone for help, either to get back to the old home, or for care until they can get funds from friends or till they go on the long journey. Anyone with a heart stands ready to help such as these. During the month of October there were eight men in this condition helped in one way or another by the Civic Betterment league."

"Six years ago a young man in the northwest developed tuberculosis. He at once, when the disease was incipient, came to the southwest. Not being very sick he went to work, unfortunately in a mine in Arizona. He stuck to it until it was too much for him and then began the search for light work, going from one thing to another, gradually getting worse. Having accumulated a little money he went to a sanatorium. His funds were soon gone, yet he was not able to make a living. For weeks after that he did what he could, working and resting as necessary. Out of money and sick, he went to a county hospital where he stayed until the authorities bought him a ticket and sent him to this city."

"He came to the Civic Betterment league office and asked for help until he could hear from home. Arrangements were made for him to stay with another health-seeker for a while, the league furnishing such provisions as he might need. Letters were sent to his people. In a few days a letter came from the mother filled with anxiety about her son but with no money. They would need some just as soon as possible. Soon another letter came saying they were trying to sell a piece of land in order to send the much needed funds."

"Another young fellow struck the city, out of funds, and came to the office to see what we could do for him. He thought that he might do some light work. He was too sick to do much of anything so a job was hard to find. The league offered to care for him until word could be received from some of his people. He declined this offer. Later he came to the office and said that through the kindness of the Evening Herald he had made $125. They had given him papers to sell, and his fine-looking man that he was, he went out on the street and sold the papers. He was ready by that time, however, for us to telegraph. A wire was sent to a relative who he thought might respond to our appeal. The next day the money came and he was able to go on his way."

"These are simply typical of the eight sick men who came to the office last month. They were all fine fellows who were in the hardest position a man can be. They should not have come here," some say. "But they are here and will continue to come as long as this city is known as the best town in the country for the sick. This is just a small part of the burden the Civic Betterment league is asking you to help carry by your gifts on November 3, 1915."

TELLS WHAT HE MEANT BY INJUNCTION TO 'SIT TIGHT AND DRAW PAY'

(By Evening Herald Special Writer)
San Francisco, Nov. 2.—Lieut. Col. Samuel Heber, chief of the aviation section of the United States army, explained to a court martial here today what he meant by telling Capt. Arthur S. Cowan at San Diego to "sit tight and draw his pay," and by some other written comment. He said Cowan was entitled to aviation extra pay although he was not an aviator, and that was what was meant. The court martial is trying Lieut. Col. Lewis E. Chandler for conduct unbecoming a disciplinarian.

Lieut. Col. Heber explained a statement that "it is embarrassing to me because Patterson doesn't appear on the weekly flying sheets" by saying that Lieut. W. L. Patterson had been prevented from flying by illness and by lack of machines, creating an embarrassing situation, but that the war department knew the facts.

Although Lieut. Col. Chandler is the man on trial, much of the testimony thus far has been about Heber, Captain Cowan and the conduct of the aviation school at San Diego, where seven army officers have been killed in two years. The defendant, it is charged, incited officers there to make charges against their superiors.

ASSOCIATION IS KEEN FOR NEW MEMBERS

Executive Committee of Stockmen More Interested in Enrollment Campaign Than Plans for Hurrah Time.

Increase in membership is to be the keynote of the big cattlemen's convention to be held here next March. The convention came here on a promise that Albuquerque boosters would organize a campaign to insure 150 new members, and the hours of the association who met yesterday afternoon with the Commercial club directors and business men made it clear that they were much more interested in seeing a growth of the organization as a result of the convention than in any form of celebration or entertainment for the delegates.

Arrangements for the convention were touched upon, but the chief emphasis laid by President Nations, of the cattlemen's association, in his address was on increased enrollment. He explained the need of greater protection for cattle and for a fund sufficiently large to enable the association to employ an effective number of inspectors and detectives to operate outside the district actually covered by the association and run down stolen stock.

If New Mexico cattle raisers came forward in support of the association in proper numbers, Mr. Nations said, it would mean the establishment of a cattlemen's triangle, with Albuquerque, Amarillo and El Paso forming the points from which the convention would swing from year to year.

A. R. McMillen, who is head of the Fernandez Cattle and Land company, endorsed what President Nations said regarding the need of protection. He pledged himself to exert every effort to see that the campaign for new members was a success.

First Vice President A. T. Wilson, of Clifton, Ariz.; Second Vice President R. De Graffenried, of Buchanan, N. M.; and Secretary William Harrell also spoke for the association.

Vice President Max Nordhaus, of the chamber of commerce and Commercial club, presided over the meeting. He stated the object of the gathering and introduced the speakers.

REID WILL ADDRESS BUSINESS MEN AT BIG DINNER

Santa Fe Attorney First of the Get-together Speakers Announced; Egan Starts on Program.

W. C. Reid, Santa Fe attorney for New Mexico, will be one of the chief speakers at the business men's get-together dinner to be held at the Commercial club November 19. His is the first speaker's name to be announced. Other finished and well-versed speakers will be drafted by the committee on arrangements, and the oratorical program promises to be one of the strongest ever offered at a dinner in the city.

It is not to be a long-winded post-prandial period, however. Excepting the main speakers, those who address the dinner will be limited to exactly two minutes. The dinner will start at 6:30 o'clock.

As the same given the dinner promises, it is to be a gathering of the business men of the city. Every man in business in Albuquerque, whether in a small way or a large way, is invited to attend. The plates will be $1 apiece.

Much will have a prominent place on the program. Thomas A. Egan, who is made or less in charge of the arrangements, started today to shape the program.

FIREMAN INJURED, HOME DESTROYED, AS RESULT OF $1,200 FIRE

Harry Dennis of Highland Company Thrown From Automobile Truck as It Answers a Second Alarm.

FLAMES, ONCE SNUFFED, BLAZE UP SECOND TIME

Half of Nicholas Apodaca's House, Thought Saved, Is Caught in Second Sweep of Requickened Blaze.

Fire at 1424 Barrios road last night did $1,200 damage. Destroyed Nicholas Apodaca's home and was indirectly the cause of serious injury to Fireman Harry Dennis, of the Highland station.

Dennis was thrown from the Highland truck at a turn near the Santa Fe shops. He was working the siren horn while standing on the running board, and his one-hand grip was not strong enough to hold him when the truck swung at a fast gait. He pitched into the roadway on his head, and lay in a heap, unconscious.

Running close behind the truck was Dr. R. L. Hust in his car. He started for the fire when a second alarm called the Highland company out. He took charge of Dennis and carried him to his (Dennis's) home at 220 South Edith street.

Dennis' main injury was diagnosed as severe concussion of the brain. An ear drum was fractured, and he bled from ear and nostrils. He was unconscious for two hours. He rallied under Dr. Hust's treatment, and this morning it was reported that he was better, although still suffering much from the effects of the blow on the head. Dr. Hust pronounced the injury serious.

The fire was discovered at 11:00 o'clock. The house is a six-room adobe structure, with three rooms on each side. The flames started in the kitchen and when the Central fire company, answering a telephone alarm, arrived the fire had not spread from the three rooms on the kitchen side. All the family were up, and out of danger.

It looked at first like a fire that could be easily handled with elements. As a matter of fact the blaze was virtually extinguished in the three rooms where they started, when someone opened the outer side of the house. The draft set up was enough to rekindle a furious blaze. Everything inflammable in the house was scorched by heat, and the first puff of air started things up again, and worse than before. The flames spread to the other side of the house, and Chief Klein sent in a second alarm to get needed lengths of hose from the Highland company.

After leaving hose with the Central men, the Highland company returned to its station. With the water stream in action the flames drew out of the house. All six rooms were damaged, and Chief Klein estimated the damage at $600 to the house and $600 to the furnishings. Apodaca carried no insurance.

The Central company was called out shortly before noon today to respond to a big wood fire in lots between Roma and Fruit avenues.

ENTENTE ALLIES THINK RUMANIA HAS DECIDED TO CAST LOT WITH THEM

Yes, the war office announced today in the Divan region fierce fighting is under way. The Rumanian, under a strong offensive movement, were repulsed with heavy losses.

Berlin, Nov. 2 (By wireless to Sarajevo).—Besides the occupation of Clack, German army headquarters announced today that a pass through the heights to the south of Milanovo into the western Morava valley, had been completed.

It was also announced that the heights south of Kramyevate have been taken.

The Bulgarian army under General Roudnikoff is making progress through the Niava valley.

Rome, Nov. 2 (Via Paris, 2:45 p. m.).—Austria-Hungary, declares the Monitore, is aiming Albanian hands with a view to harrying the rear of the Serbian army and assisting the Bulgarian forces to reach the Adriatic.

The Austrian effort, the newspaper asserts, is being hampered by the attitude of Enver Pasha, provisional president of Albania, who is friendly to the Serbians and is at present in control of central Albania.

Paris, Nov. 2 (2:25 p. m.).—The press of the Austro-German forces in the center of the northern line with great losses is reported in an official Serbian communication received here today. It follows:

On October 23 on the northwestern front the enemy attacked in force on the right bank of the Peniza, and with less strength on the right bank of the Morava.

"In the center the enemy was driven back with great losses. They having approached within 500 meters of the Serbian positions. On the remainder of the front there were no engagements."

"On the eastern (Bulgarian) front there was no important change south of the Morava. Toward Piro fighting is continuous as also is the case to the west of Zajevar."

her 8, the women could have the pure horse, bathhouse John, Lockett, the best anything else they desire. That is, providing of course, that means the serial editors' request for anything.

For the Self-Photo circus depicts a lot upon its women. More than one of the show is run almost exclusively by them—and the best of it is run perfectly. For instance, there is Linda Ross, who has charge of the training of all the elephants. There is Mrs. William Carls, who personally supervises every inch of the wardrobe and dresses the costumes, besides originating all and every new and then, there is Rosa Rosalind, the rider, who has charge of all the other equestriennes in the show. There is Mrs. Charles Lockett, who controls all the aerial acts—and Mrs. Rosalind and all the other women will appear with the circus when it comes here for its day's stay. They also will be in the parade.
